machines to restaurants in a specified territory. These materials included training materials, marketing materials, business cards, and a lead service.

- 6. In or around July 2012, a Washington Resident (Resident) responded to the Craigslist ad. Resident began communicating telephonically with representatives from Mr. Oil Saver. Resident spoke to Daskalakis regarding the purchase of the distributorship. Daskalakis sold the distributorship to Resident.
- 7. On or about August 8, 2012, Resident signed the Mr. Oil Saver Distributor Agreement (Agreement). Under the Agreement, Mr. Oil Saver (a) charged Resident a fee, (b) provided Resident with materials containing Mr. Oil Saver's trademark, and (c) provided Resident with marketing materials. Mr. Oil Saver and Daskalakis failed to provide Resident with a Franchise Disclosure Document (FDD) pertaining to the Agreement.
- 8. The Agreement contains provisions that grant Mr. Oil Saver a certain level of control over the Resident's Mr. Oil Saver business. These provisions include price controls, sales quotas, machine repair procedures, and insurance requirements.
- 9. At or around the time the Resident signed the Agreement, the Resident paid Mr. Oil Saver a fee of at least $32,000. This fee covered the cost of the distributorship and four filtration machines. The Resident paid this fee to Mr. Oil Saver by wiring funds from his checking account and by charging a credit card.
- 10. The Agreement contains a provision that, within thirty to sixty days, Mr. Oil Saver will prepare marketing materials and provide three days of training to the distributor. The Resident attended a Mr. Oil Saver training in Florida. At this training, Mr. Oil Saver taught Resident how to set up a Mr. Oil Saver company, provided Resident with marketing tips for closing accounts, and taught Resident how to use the filtration machines.
- 11. The Agreement contains a provision that Mr. Oil Saver will provide the distributor with Mr. Oil Saver business cards, Mr. Oil Saver truck magnets, Mr. Oil Saver Polo Shirts, and Mr. Oil Saver hats. Mr. Oil Saver provided Resident with Mr. Oil Saver business cards featuring Resident's name and the Mr. Oil Saver logo. These business cards did not say "distributor" on the card. Resident also received Mr. Oil Saver truck magnets, shirts and hats containing the Mr. Oil Saver logo. Mr. Oil Saver encouraged distributors to wear the Mr. Oil Saver logo.

- 12. Mr. Oil Saver granted distributors permission and license to register a d/b/a as Mr. Oil Saver. Mr. Oil Saver told distributors to do all Mr. Oil Saver business under the name Mr. Oil Saver and not another company.
- 13. The Agreement offers the distributor a right of first refusal to purchase a Mr. Fire Safety franchise in the distributor's Mr. Oil Saver territory. Mr. Fire Safety is in the business of providing exhaust hood cleaning and fire extinguisher services to restaurants. Mr. Fire Safety charges franchisees a franchise fee, provides franchisees with a marketing plan, and grants franchisees the right to use the Mr. Fire Safety trademark. At the Florida training, Resident was orally offered to purchase a Mr. Fire Safety franchise. Resident did not purchase a Mr. Fire Safety franchise.

Misrepresentations and Omissions

14. Mr. Oil Saver and Daskalakis failed to disclose to Resident that Daskalakis filed for Chapter 7 bankruptcy on October 11, 2002 and that the bankruptcy was discharged in January 2003.
